ASSESSMENT & TESTING SERVICES

PSYCHOEDUCATIONAL/NEUROPSYCHOLOGICAL EVALUATIONS

A psychoeducational/neuropsychological evaluation is the most comprehensive evaluation offered, and is focused on broad cognitive, behavioral/emotional functioning, academics, and executive functioning. This assessment is tailored to the individual in order to address the referral question. It includes a review of relevant records (e.g., most recent IEP, previous evaluations); a clinical interview and developmental history; assessment of the following cognitive domains: intellectual functioning, verbal and nonverbal reasoning and problem-solving, attention and executive functioning, memory and learning, and fine motor and visual-motor integration; and screenings for emotional and behavioral disorders. Testing for academic performance may be included when relevant. A written report that contains all of the test findings and interpretations of the results is provided along with a comprehensive feedback session with a licensed psychologist. This evaluation is most appropriate for school-age children, adolescents, and adults. The full battery evaluation provides a flat rate charge that allows us to look at all aspects of an individual.

DIAGNOSTIC EVALUATIONS

AUTISM SPECTRUM DISORDER EVALUATION

At Counseling & Assessments at the SMART Center, we utilize the Autism Diagnostic Observation Schedule-2 (ADOS-2) as well as the Autism Diagnostic Interview (ADI-R) which are considered to be the 'gold standard' for diagnosing Autism.

The ASD testing consists of two sessions:

- Session One is a 2 ½-3 hour interview with the adult requesting testing or the client's caregiver (specifically someone who is able to provide information about the client's first 5 years of development)
- Session Two is an hour long assessment with the child/adolescent/adult. At the conclusion of the testing, the evaluator will develop a comprehensive report based upon the findings from the testing period.

The evaluator will schedule a feedback session with the caregiver and the client which will review the results of the testing, diagnostic information, and specific-individualized recommendations that will provide the child/adolescent with the most effective strategies and resources for support.

ATTENTION-DEFICIT/HYPERACTIVITY DISORDER EVALUATION

Children are often diagnosed with ADHD following self-reports and clinical interviews. However, ADHD often overlaps with many other diagnoses and symptoms. That is why formalized executive functioning testing is always recommended in order to obtain an accurate diagnostic picture and impression. A comprehensive report along with recommendations is provided and reviewed at a feedback session with a licensed psychologist.

Program Fee: $1,500

SPEECH AND LANGUAGE EVALUATION

The SMart Center offers comprehensive speech and language evaluations conducted by certified and licensed speech-language pathologists tailored for children with social communication challenges from preschool through high school years.

This evaluation includes standardized and informal measures to appropriately assess the oral mechanism, speech sound articulation, speech production during co-articulation, receptive and expressive language (understanding language and expressing oneself at an age-appropriate level involving semantics, syntax, morphology, and/or pragmatic language), voice (pitch, quality, and loudness), and fluency of speech (rate and rhythm). The series of assessment tools vary depending on the individualized needs of the child. All testing is conducted by an ASHA certified and PA licensed speech-language pathologist.

The speech-language pathologists at the SMart Center are well qualified to properly assess children's speech and language skills. They hold a master's or Doctoral degree and have many years of experience treating children with speech-language needs, including those with Selective Mutism. All speech-language pathologists at the SMart Center have experience working with children who have selective mutism and know how to evaluate and engage those with social communication disorders.
